RE: Letter of Recommendation – Mike Orlando

To Whom It May Concern:

Hiring Mike Orlando was not a decision made lightly. Neither is writing this letter.

Mike was our primary construction consultant for a full shopping center remodel, including the installation of a new anchor tenant, for a property we own in Encinitas, CA. We typically handle most work in-house and HATE spending money for outside consultants, but when it became apparent we needed additional expertise for our project I started asking for referrals from my peers, friends, and acquaintances. Mike was at the top of that referral list.

I had known Mike personally for several years prior to hiring him, but never really knew what he did or what his background entailed. When he was recommended “as a Ferrari amongst Fords” I was intrigued. When I discussed the project with him and what he could “bring to the table,” I was sold. I wasn’t disappointed.

Mike’s calm, thoughtful demeanor, coupled with his attention to detail, saved me time, headaches, and most importantly, money. He’s not cheap, but “you get what you pay for” and he paid for his services many times over with his insight, cost and time savings.

Obviously, I highly recommend Mike and wouldn’t hesitate to hire him again for projects in the future.

Sincerely,
